Miss Marjorie Nicholson
The Reader's Digest
Pleasantville, New York

Dear Miss Nicholson:

I have made it a practice since I have been in this job not to accept personally any remuneration for articles, speeches, and the like, as I only engage in these activities where I consider that it is a part of, and helpful to, the work I am doing.

Hence, with regard to the check which you kindly sent me for the condensation of my Detroit speech, I can adopt either of the following two alternatives which you wish: (1) Return the check to you, or (2) Accept the check and turn the proceeds over to a charity which we have set up here and which is designed in part to assist members of this agency who, for reasons beyond their control, need financial help which cannot legally be provided by the government.

I will follow either alternative you desire. Kindly advise.

Faithfully yours,

Allen W. Dulles
